""Deutschland Spielt" ist ein Live-Quiz mit völlig neuen Spiel- und Showformen, die es in dieser Form noch nie gegeben hat. Dabei ist es viel mehr als nur ein Quiz, denn im Mittelpunkt stehen die Kandidaten und der Wettbewerb um die Gunst des Publikums. Aber natürlich geht es auch darum, wer die meisten Aufgaben löst und am Donnerstagabend im ZDF den Jackpot gewinnt." "Germany Plays" is a live game show with completely new game and show formats that has never existed in this form before. And of course it is much more than just a quiz since at the center are the contestants and the competition for the love of the audience. But of course, it also has to do with who solves the most tasks and wins on Thursday evening at ZDF. ZDF's site for the program reference in English The German quiz show is a new type of broadcaster in Germany - a Non-commercial Public Service Media or NPSM, providing entertainment content at no cost. The use of this format is also making its way from the UK to other countries, mainly from Scandinavia. In particular, they have been influenced by Big Brother and American reality TV shows such as the Today Show and the Ellen DeGeneres Show - which ZDF/ARD have used for similar formats often since 2004. But now, they are trying something new with Germany Plays. The show will run only 3 consecutive prime time shows on Saturday, Sunday and Monday nights. Then there will be a second weekly prime time show on ZDFneo every Thursday night. Each prime time show is about 1 hour long. The Thursday night show is shorter with only 30 minutes of gameplay. German commentators are Nico Hofmann (nicknamed "Fettsack" - fat sack) and Jens Büchner (nicknamed "Bäumchen" - little tree).
